1. Introduction

The Daily Statement Guide provides a concise user guide to your daily statement.

Each business day, you will receive a daily statement by e-mail which will contain details of your trading activity and any profits and losses that you have made.

This Guide is designed to assist you in accessing and understanding the daily statements.

If you have any questions or queries regarding the daily statement, visit our website or contact our customer service desk.

2. Accessing Your Statement

You will receive your daily statement via e-mail each business day and, in addition, you can access your daily statement (and previous daily statements) via the Saturn Trader.

1. Via Email

You will receive a copy of your daily statement by email each business day. The daily statement is created in PDF format and is sent as an attachment to the email address which you have provided in your account opening form.

The daily statement will display details of the trade activities that you conducted in the day, together with any other trades that remain open, and will be sent to you after 22.00 London Time on the relevant business day.

If you do not receive a daily statement, please do not hesitate to contact our Customer Service Desk.

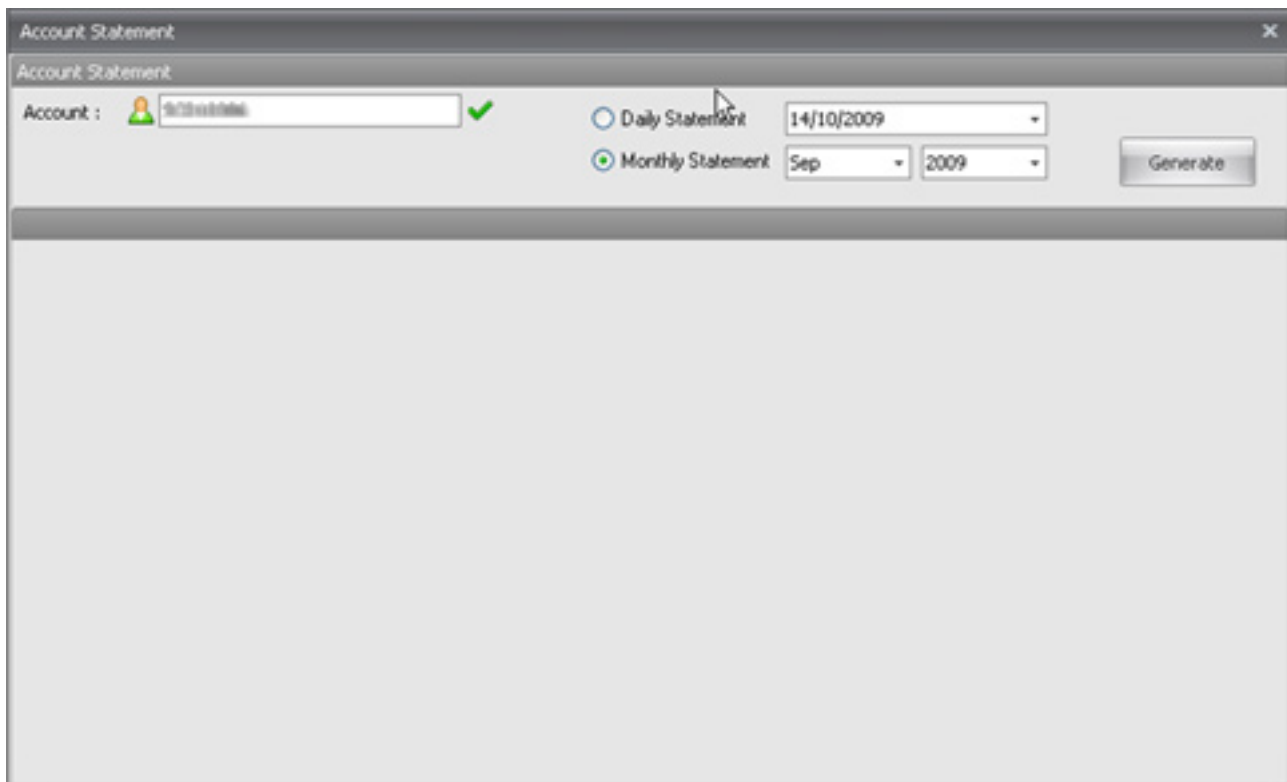

2. Via The Trading Platform

You may also retrieve your daily statements from the Trading Platform

i. Log into Saturn trader
